

While presenting a check for $10,000 to the Duree Center for Entrepreneurship at Lindenwood University, AT&T-Missouri President, Craig Unruh, said,

“AT&T is proud to support the DECA/CAPS Consultancy through our Aspire Foundation program. AT&T Aspire focuses on assisting high school students to successfully complete their studies and advance to college or job training programs. It is impressive to see the five school districts in St. Charles County and Lindenwood University come together on a program inspiring entrepreneurship. This program of pairing college students and high school students is very unique. Having real experiences with real businesses creates real success. On behalf of everyone at AT&T, we are happy we can partner with you in this endeavor.”

Pictured are leaders from AT&T, Lindenwood University, the five St. Charles County school districts, St. Charles County CAPS Board members, and students.